1 Executive Summary

The Free and Fair Election Network (FAFEN) conducted a comprehensive assessment of 253 public bodies of the Punjab province to evaluate their adherence to the requirements of proactive disclosure of information under Punjab Transparency and Right to Information Act (PTRIA) 2013. The assessment, carried out between January 15, 2025, and January 29, 2025, focused on the availability and accessibility of information mandated by the PTRIA on official websites of the public bodies.

The assessment covered six key categories of information required under Section 4 of the PTRIA: an overview of public bodies, public services and conditions, personnel information, legal frameworks and policies, decision-making and financial information, and procedure for access to information. The assessment included 43 Secretariat Departments, 27 Attached Departments, 147 Autonomous Bodies, 23 Public Companies, and 13 Special Institutions operating in the province.

Despite more than a decade passed since the enactment of the Act, the findings reveal inconsistent compliance across various entities of the Provincial Government of Punjab. On an average, 52 percent of the legally-mandated information was found available on the official websites of Punjab’s public bodies during the assessment period. This percentage is higher than the information availability rate among the federal departments that stood at 42 percent. However, significant variations were noted across various types of public bodies. The Secretariat Departments of the Provincial Government led in transparency, proactively disclosing an average 61 percent of the required information. Their Attached Departments followed with 53 percent information availability rate, Autonomous Bodies with 51 percent, Special Institutions with 49 percent, and Public Companies with 37 percent.

Introduction

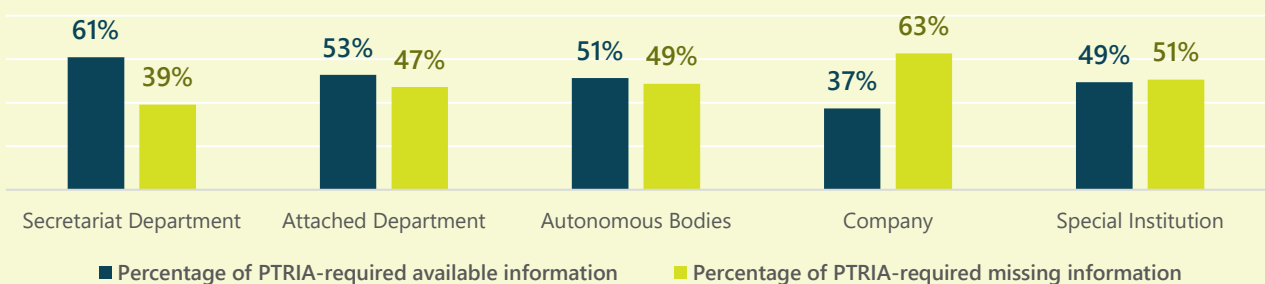

Easy and equitable access to information about government institutions is a cornerstone for building public trust in them. Such transparency not only empowers citizens but also serves as a safeguard against misinformation and corruption, as the lack of it may lead citizens to informal and often exploitative channels to obtain information or services entrenching inefficiencies and eroding institutional credibility.

Pakistan’s meaningful progress toward institutional transparency began after the 2010 Eighteenth Constitutional Amendment recognized the right to information as a fundamental right. This paved the way for modern RTI laws across the country, including the Punjab Transparency and Right to Information Act in 2013.

FAFEN’s Countering Disinformation through Information campaign focuses on evaluating how the country’s RTI framework functions in practice. Following an assessment of federal ministries, this report focuses on Punjab’s public bodies, analyzing their compliance with the 2013 Act to identify gaps between policy and implementation.

The report assesses as many as 253 public bodies of five distinct types that fall under the scope of the Punjab Government Rules of Business 2011.

Out of 43 Secretariat Departments, three—Human Rights and Minorities Affairs, Irrigation, and Livestock and Dairy Development—achieved a compliance rate of over 80 percent. As many as eight departments, including Housing, Urban Development and Public Health Engineering, and Local Government and Community Development, fell within the 71-80 percent range. As many as 20 departments ranked between 61-70 percent, six between 51-60 percent, three between 41-50 percent, and three between 31-40 percent.

Among the 27 Attached Departments, two—Punjab Prison and Punjab Police—achieved an 83 percent compliance rate. Nine departments ranked between 61-70 percent. Six departments fell within the 51-60 percent range, eight within 41-50 percent, and two within 31-40 percent.

Of the 147 Autonomous Bodies, only four exceeded an 80 percent compliance rate. As many as 13 bodies fell within the 71-80 percent range, while 36 ranked between 61-70 percent. The majority of Autonomous Bodies were concentrated in the 41-50 percent (36 bodies) and 51-60 percent (40 bodies) ranges. Sixteen bodies ranked between 31-40 percent, and one fell within the 21-30 percent range.

Out of 23 Government Companies, only the Punjab Municipal Fund Development Company achieved a compliance rate of 71-80 percent. Two companies—Lahore Waste Management Company and Multan Waste Management Company—ranked between 61-70 percent and 51-60 percent, respectively. Six companies fell within the 41-50 percent range, nine within 31-40 percent, and three within 21-30 percent.

Among the 13 Special Institutions, only the Office of the Provincial Ombudsman achieved a compliance rate of 71-80 percent. Three institutions, including the Punjab Public Service Commission, ranked between 61-70 percent, while three others, such as the Lahore High Court, fell within the 31-40 percent range. Two institutions, including Aitchison College Lahore, ranked between 41-50 percent, and four, including the Punjab Information Commission, fell within the 51-60 percent range.

Secretariat Department is a self-contained administrative unit in the Punjab Secretariat responsible for the conduct of business of the Government in a distinct and specified sphere and declared or constituted as such under the Punjab Government Rules of Business 2011.

Attached Department is a department that is under the direct control of a Secretariat Department and has been declared as such by the Punjab Government.

Government Company category refers to a company created in the public sector by the Punjab Government.

Autonomous Body is a board, corporation, institution, organization, authority, or other body established by the Punjab Government. An Autonomous Body is governed by its own enactment and the rules and regulations made thereunder.

Special Institutions refer to specific organizations and bodies that perform unique functions within the provincial framework.

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

The average compliance rate of 52 percent highlights significant gaps in transparency and adherence to the PTRIA across Punjab’s public bodies.

2

Secretariat Departments demonstrated the highest level of compliance, while Government Companies lagged significantly.

3

The Departments of Human Rights and Minorities Affairs and Punjab Prison, stood out with compliance rates exceeding 80 percent.

A substantial number of public bodies, particularly Autonomous Bodies and Government Companies, fell within the lower compliance ranges (31-50 percent).

2 Assessment of Public Bodies' Compliance with the Punjab Transparency and Right to Information Act

FAFEN assessed the official websites of 253 public bodies of Punjab that are covered in the Punjab Government Rules of Business 2011 to evaluate their compliance with the proactive disclosure requirements outlined in Section 4 of the PTRIA 2013. While the PTRIA 2013 does not explicitly mandate websites as the primary medium for proactive disclosures, digital platforms remain the most accessible and practical avenue for ensuring public access to information. With over 111 million Pakistanis using the internet, official websites offer a cost-effective, efficient, and widely reachable method for institutions to fulfill their transparency obligations. This also aligns with global best practices, where digital disclosure has become the norm for modern governance. Against this backdrop, this report focuses on assessing the availability of mandated information on Punjab's public bodies' websites.

The assessment covered 43 Secretariat Departments, 27 Attached Departments, 147 Autonomous Bodies, 23 Companies, and 13 Special Institutions (See Annexure 1 for a complete list of the assessed public bodies). The assessment period spanned over 15 days between January 15, 2025, and January 29, 2025. For the purpose of assessment, the report categorized the information required to be disclosed proactively under subsections (a) to (m) of Section 4 as elaborated in the Figure 1.

Category 1 - Overview of Public Bodies

This category covers the basic particulars about the organization, and its functions and duties.

Category 2 - Personnel Information

This category covers the information about officers and employees along with their powers, functions, remuneration, perks, and privileges.

Category 3 - Public Services and Conditions

This category includes information about the norms and criteria set by a public body for discharging its functions.

Category 4 - Legal Framework and Policies

This category covers the acts, ordinances, rules, regulations, notifications, circulars, and other legal instruments being enforced, issued, or used by a public body for discharging its functions.

Category 5 - Decision-Making and Financial Transparency

This category covers the information about decision-making process of a public body including any mechanism to seek citizens' input, the budget including details of all proposed and actual expenditures, the amount of subsidy and details of beneficiaries if any, and particulars of the recipients of concessions, permits or authorizations.

Category 6 - Access to Information

This category covers a statement of categories of information held by a public body, the facilities for obtaining the information, and the name, designation, and other particulars of the public information officer.

Below is a detailed breakdown of the compliance levels across the seven information categories mandated by the PTRIA for proactive disclosure to the public.

1. Overview of Public Bodies

Public bodies are legally obligated to proactively disclose their particulars, functions, and duties. This requirement is enshrined in Section 4(a) of the PTRIA, 2013, which mandates that such information be made readily accessible to citizens. Additionally, Section 8(1) of the Act holds public bodies accountable for maintaining their information in an easily accessible format. Furthermore, Rule 4(3) underscores the responsibility of public bodies to publish categories of their information online, as directed by the relevant commission, to ensure ease of access for the public.

Majority (90 percent) of public bodies disclosed information about their particulars, functions, and duties on their websites. However, 10 percent of public bodies did not meet this requirement. Around 93 percent of Secretariat Departments' websites, 92 percent each of Attached Departments and Autonomous Bodies, 77 percent of Special Institutions, and 74 percent of Companies disclosed the information falling in this category on their websites.

Table 1 shows the details of the public bodies by their type and the status of information availability under this category.

Type of Public Bodies	Websites Reviewed	Disclosure of Information About Particulars of the Public Bodies, its Functions and Duties
		Complete or Partial Information Available	Information Not Available
Secretariat Departments	43	40	3
Attached Departments	27	25	2
Autonomous Bodies	147	136	11

Special Institutions	13	10	3
Total	253	228	25
Percentage		90%	10%

▶ Refer to Annexure 2 to see the status of information disclosure under Category 1 by each public body.

2. Personnel Information

The disclosure of personnel information is further divided into two sub-categories:

- a) Powers and functions of officers and employees, and
- b) Directory of officers and employees, including their remuneration, perks, and privileges.

Below is an analysis of the findings for both categories based on the assessment of public bodies under the Punjab Government.

a) Disclosure of Information About Powers and Functions of its Officers and Employees

Section 4(b) of PTRIA mandates public bodies to disclose information about the powers and functions of their officers and employees. Around 43 percent of public bodies provided this information, while 57 percent did not disclose it. The public bodies being transparent about this information included 54 percent of the Secretariat Departments, 50 percent Autonomous Bodies, 26 percent Attached Departments, 23 percent Special Institutions and 13 percent Government Companies.

b) Disclosure of Information About Directory of Its Officers and Employees with their Respective Remuneration, Perks, and Privileges

Section 4(g) of the PTRIA requires public bodies to publish a directory of their officers and employees, including details of their remuneration, perks, and privileges. According to the assessment, only 36 percent organizations provided complete or partial information in this sub-category on their websites, while 64 percent did not disclose these details. The public bodies making this information available included 54 percent Secretariat Departments, 37 percent Autonomous Bodies, 31 percent Special Institutions, and 30 percent Attached Departments. None of the government companies disclosed this information.

Table 2 shows the details of the public bodies by their type and the status of information availability under this category.

3. Public Services and Conditions

The disclosure of norms and criteria for the discharge of functions is a requirement under Section 4(c) of the PTRIA 2013. According to the assessment, 90 percent of the public bodies – 93 percent each Secretariat Departments, their Attached Departments and Autonomous Bodies, 77 percent Special Institutions, and 70 percent Companies– have complied with this requirement, while the remaining 10 percent have not made this information accessible to citizens.

Table 3 shows the details of the public bodies by their type and the status of information availability under this category.

4. Legal Framework and Policies

Section 4(d) of the PTRIA mandates public bodies to disclose information about acts, ordinances, rules, regulations, notifications, circulars, and other legal frameworks that govern their functions. Around 86 percent of public bodies’ websites complied with this requirement, while 14 percent did not disclose the required legal frameworks and policies. Those complying with this requirement included 100 percent Special Institutions, 89 percent each Attached Departments and Autonomous Bodies, 86 percent Secretariat Departments, and 52 percent Government Companies.

Table 4 shows the details of the public bodies by their type and the status of information availability under this category.

5. Decision-Making and Financial Information

Sections 4(f), (h), (i), and (j) of the PTRIA require the disclosure of:

- a) Decision-making processes and opportunities for public consultation;
- b) Budget details, including proposed and actual expenditures;
- c) Amount of subsidies and details of beneficiaries (if applicable); and
- d) Particulars of recipients of concessions, permits, or authorizations granted by the public body.

Below is a detailed analysis of the compliance levels of Punjab’s public bodies with these provisions, based on the assessment of their official websites.

a) Disclosure of Information Decision-making Processes and Opportunities for Public to Provide Input into or be Consulted About Decisions

According to the assessment, only eight percent of public bodies disclosed decision-making processes on their websites, while 92 percent did not. Those disclosing this information included 15 percent Special Institutions, eight percent autonomous bodies, seven percent each Secretariat Departments and Attached Departments and four percent Companies.

b) Disclosure of Information about the Budget of the Public Body Including Details of All Proposed and Actual Expenditures

According to the assessment, around 29 percent of public bodies’ websites published the required information regarding budget. However, 71 percent of public bodies’ websites did not comply with the provision. Those disclosing this information included 70 percent Attached Departments, 63 percent Secretariat Departments, 30 percent Special Institutions, 14 percent autonomous bodies, and 13 percent Companies.

c) Disclosure of Information About Amount of Subsidy and Details of Beneficiaries if the Public Body Provides any Subsidy

According to the assessment, only two percent of public bodies published the required information regarding amounts of subsidies and its beneficiaries on their websites. However, it is unclear about how many public bodies were actually providing any subsidy. Those disclosing this information included seven percent Attached Departments, two percent Secretariat Departments, and one percent Autonomous Bodies.

d) Disclosure of Information about Particulars of the Recipients of Concessions, Permits, or Authorizations Granted by the Public Body

According to the assessment, only three percent of public bodies published the information regarding recipients of concessions, permits or authorizations by the public bodies on their websites. However, it is unclear about how many public bodies had such concessions, permits and authorizations in their mandate. Those disclosing this information included seven percent Secretariat Departments and three percent Autonomous Bodies.

Table 5 shows the details of the public bodies by their type and the status of information availability under this category.

6. Procedure for Accessing Information

Sections 5(e), 5(k), and 5(l) of the PTRIA, 2013, outline the disclosure requirements for the following categories of information:

- Particulars of the Public Information Officer (PIO);
- Facilities available for obtaining information held by the public body; and
- Statement of categories of information held by the public body.

a) Disclosure of Information about Name, Designation, and Other Particulars of the Public Information Officer of the Public Body

According to the assessment, 37 percent of public bodies disclosed the particulars of their PIO, while 63 percent did not publish this information on their websites. As many as 72 percent of the Secretariat Departments, 26 percent Attached Departments, 31 percent Autonomous Bodies, 22 percent Government Companies and 38 percent Special Institutions explicitly declared this information on their websites.

b) Disclosure of Information About Facilities Available With the Public Body for Obtaining Information Held by it

According to the assessment, 97 percent of public bodies disclosed the facilities available for obtaining information on their websites while three percent did not publish this information. All of the Secretariat Departments, Government Companies and Special Institutions, 92 percent Attached Departments, and 96 percent Autonomous Bodies shared this information on their websites.

c) Disclosure of Information About Statement of Categories of Information Being Held by the Public Body

According to the assessment, all public bodies assessed as part of this report had disclosed the information as required in this sub-category on their websites.
